WAKEFIELD & Barbara (DEVORE) WAKEFIELD (1900 Census – Jasper Co., IL) (1910 Census – Marion Co, IL) (Info. from parents' marriage record) Accidently Shot Himself: Tuesday about noon, Joe WAKEFIELD, 16 years old, residing about five miles southeast of this city, accidentally shot himself, which caused his death that night about 12 o'clock. Young WAKEFIELD and a neighbor boy had walked to Omega and were returning home and were in the timber near the residence of Rev. W.J. SIMER and WAKEFIELD was carrying his gun under his right arm when it was accidentally discharged, the full charge entering the calf of this right leg. The boy with him ran for help and H. SIMERS hitched a team to a wagon and hauled the wounded boy home, and in the meantime, Dr. MILLER was sent for. The Dr. arrived at the WAKEFIELD home soon after the arrival of the boy, and he immediately called for another physician and Dr. J. AKESTER was summoned. By the time Dr. MILLER arrived, which was about 2 hours after the accident, the loss of blood had been so great the boy was very weak, but the Dr. tied the leg above the knee and stopped the flow of blood. The two physicians decided the only chance to save the boy's life was to amputate the limb, which they did. The boy had become so weak from the loss of blood before the doctors arrived that he never rallied from the operation and died about 12 o'clock that night. This is indeed a very sad accident and should be another warning for men as well as boys to never carry a gun cocked - no matter whether it is loaded or not. (Obituary in "The Kinmundy Express" Feb. 14, 1907)

Vernon, Ind., son of William and Susan Jones EASTMAN. Art, as he was called, was a horse trainer and worked with race horses. He married Daisy Lula DIVINE, the daughter of David Dennis DIVINE of Kinmundy, IL. When they married in 1905, Daisy was 17 and Art was 28. Within 14 years, they had 7 children, and when the last one was born, Daisy died at childbirth at the age of 31. Daisy died at Odin Feb 2, 1919, and they put her on the train and took her to Kinmundy, because the mud was too deep for the horses. She is buried in Phillips Cemetery. Their children were Levi (1906-1971), Robert (1908-1987), Earl lives in South Carolina, Henry (1912-1919), Thomas who lives in Patoka at this writing, Ruby Divine, and Daisy Mae who lived 1 year. Art married again and had a daughter Susan, by Laura Johnston. Art returned to Mattoon where his parents had lived and he worked with race horses. In 1963 he was found in the horse barn, having had a cerebral hemorrhage. He was taken to the Mt. Vernon hospital and died there. He was buried in Elmwood Cemetery in Marion Co., Aug. 8, 1963. CRAIG, Benjamin D.

BENJAMIN D. CRAIG.

A consistent and valuable prerogative is exercised by a compilation of this nature when it enters a resume of the life history of so honored and prominent a citizen as he whose name initiates this paragraph. He has played well his part in the early and subsequent development and civic and industrial progress of Marion county, proving himself a man of courage, self-reliance and utmost integrity of purpose, so that he has during his entire life stood high in the esteem of his neighbors and friends. He has spent his long and useful life within the borders of his native county, and has done much to develop its interests. Benjamin D. Craig was born in Marion county, Illinois, February 4, 1848, the son of James K., and Catherine (Wilkinson) Craig. When he reached maturity our subject was united in marriage with Fena B. Weese, of Indianapolis, the ceremony which made them man and wife having been performed on September 27, 1875, in the city of Indianapolis. This union has been most harmonious and happy, and has resulted in the birth of three children, namely: James Floyd, who married Grace Hackett, and who is the mother of one daughter, Helen; George Raymond, who married Mary Skinner, and who is the father of one child, a girl named Margie; Jennie Ethel married Arthur Curry, who travels for the Hall Safe Company, and who lives in Evansville, Indiana. They now have one son, born November 7, 1908. Our subject's wife is the daughter of Reuben B. and Phoebe Stokley Weese, both natives of Pennsylvania, having come here from Mercer county, Pennsylvania, to Warrick county, Indiana. There are three children in the Weese family, namely: Fena B., wife of our subject; George W., and Jennie. The wife of our subject was three years old when her parents moved to Indiana. The date of her birth is recorded as May 20, 1851, having occurred in Pennsylvania. She received her early education in Charlottesville, near Greenfield, Hancock county. Benjamin D. Craig is very active in handling all kinds of farming implements and machinery used for upto-date farm work, most of his stock being purchased of the P. P. Mass & Company, of Springfield, Ohio, and the Racine Saddlery Company of Springfield, Illinois. He understands machinery and always handles the best grades that the market affords, and owing to his careful buying he is enabled to sell his stock at reasonable figures, and therefore has a wide patronage. In politics he is a loyal Democrat, first voted for Samuel T- Tilden. He has never been a partisan, being contented to attend strictly to individual affairs and assist in placing the best men possible in the county offices, and his support can always be depended upon when questions are before the public equiring definiteness of purpose in deciding them for the right. In his religious affiliations his support is not given to any special church, however, he believes in Christianity. His parents were Methodists. The parents of Mrs. Craig are also Methodists. Our subject is regarded as one of the loyal and progressive business men of his township, and owing to the fact that all of his useful life has been spent within the borders of Marion county, he is well known in every township, especially in Kinmundy, where he maintains his home, and where he is regarded as one of the substantial men of the community.

CRAIG, James K.
p. 531

JAMES K. CRAIG. - Among the men who have been largely instrumental in developing and advancing the opulent natural resources of Marion county, Illinois, stands the gentleman whose name initiates this review and whose fine farm property, in Omega township, is one of the many attractive and valuable rural domains of this favored section of the Sucker state. James K. Craig was born in Kentucky, December 28, 1824, and came with his parents to Marion county, Illinois, at the age of twelve and one-half years. The father of the subject was James Craig, who was born in the Blue Grass state June 1, 1784. His mother was also born in Kentucky in April, 1787. Her maiden name was Sevilla Hanks, being a sister of Lincoln's mother, Nancy Hanks. They were people of fine traits of character and were known as hard workers and kindly disposed. In their family were nineteen children, our subject being next to the youngest in order of birth. James Craig, the subject's father, was at one time the richest man in Hardin county, Kentucky, but he lost his land claim by others who lawed him out of both right and title. Mr. Craig came to Illinois in 1837 and settled in the wilderness. He took up no land for all was common ground, and he decided that he had rather not have any land as all was free to till, hunt on and use in whatever way struck the pioneer's fancy. Samuel H. Craig, the elder brother of the subject, captured an Indian pony at Kellogg's Grove and brought it home while the Indians were trying to burn the settlers' houses in that vicinity. Money was very scarce in those days, being for the most part in small bills, called "shin plasters." There was some gold, but no silver. Our subject remembers going five and one-half miles to the post-office, bareheaded and barefooted and paying twenty-five cents, the price of postage, before receiving his letter. No letter could be received until this amount was paid. He was for many years the only man in his community who took a paper, a weekly, "The People's Organ," now led the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. It cost one dollar per year, and it was loaned to the whole neighborhood to be read. Our subject was united in marriage with Catherine Wilkinson, the daughter of Jehu Wilkinson, of Scotch descent, the day of their wedding occurring on February 25, 1847. Nine children were born to this union, six of whom are living in 1908. Mr. Craig has fifteen grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The following are the names of the subject's children : Benjamin D., James H., Elizabeth, Sarah, Ann, Samuel, Jehu, Ida and John E.

p. 523

LEWIS COMBS. - Lewis Combs was born in Dubois county, Indiana, November 20, 1828, the son of John Combs, of Tennessee. His mother's name was Delila Vancouver, a native of Scott county, Indiana. John Combs went with his parents when a boy to Dubois county, Indiana, where they were pioneers. They secured wild land which they cleared, made a comfortable home and on which they died. John Combs lived to about 1842. He came by wagon, bringing seven head of horses to Walnut Prairie, Clark county, Illinois, and later to Marion county, settling in Meacham township on Scrutchfield Prairie, where he stayed two years and went back to Indiana, remaining there one year when he returned to Marion county, Illinois, where he remained for six years. Then he went to Missouri where he remained for two years, moving then to Arkansas, where he died. His wife died in Indiana. They were the parents of six children, as follows: Lewis, our subject; Starling; Wesley, Smith, Minerva Lytle; the last four named are all deceased. Lewis Combs, our subject, had no chance to go to school and learn to read and write. He remained with his father until twenty years old when he began working out at various places. He first bought forty acres of land in Omega township, Marion county, Illinois, in 1864. He sold this the following year and located where he now lives in section 35, Meacham township, then known as Miletus township. He served as postmaster for a period of fourteen years. He was married three times, first to Martha Scrutchfield, a native of Indiana. His second wife was Isabelle Simonds, a native of Kentucky, and his third wife was Caroline Melton, a widow of Christopher Melton and a daughter of Charles and Rebecca Lockhart. The latter was a native of Orange county, Indiana. The subject's wife was born in Clay county, Illinois, in 1841. Her parents located in Oskaloosa, Illinois, and in 1860 went to Arkansas. Her husband in 1862 enlisted and was taken sick at Helena, Arkansas, and died at St. Louis in a hospital in October, 1862. The family came to Clay county, Illinois, and the mother died in March, 1895. Three children were born to them, namely: Martha, who died in April, 1862 ; Caroline, the wife of our subject; May, who died April 10, 1863. Our subject has six children by his first wife, namely : Frances, widow of Thomas Garner, and she lives near Salem, Illinois; Louisa married Austin Hanks, of Omega township;

Logan is a farmer in Meacham township; Julia is the wife of Lorenzo Phillips, of Omega township; Austin is a farmer in Clay county, Illinois; Samuel, the sixth child, is deceased. The subject had four children by his second wife, namely: Nellie, the wife of Frank Dravance, of Effingham county, Illinois; Ella is the wife of Henry Smith, living near Salem, Illinois; Lee is a farmer in Omega township; Edgar died when young. Two children have been born to the subject and his third wife, namely : Mae, who is the wife of Jesse Payon, a teacher of Marion county; Bessie is the wife of Loyd Hanks, of Meacham township. Mrs. Combs had eight children by her first husband, six of whom are still living, namely : Louisa, who married Allen Smith, of Clay county, Illinois; Belle is deceased; Emma married Edward Threewit, of Meacham township; Lockhart, of Sharpsburg, Illinois ; Martha is the wife of Walter King, of Meacham township; Franklin is living in McCoupin county, Illinois, and he is engaged as engineer in the coal mines; James is deceased; Ellen is also deceased.
